WHEN BULLETS RANG OUT ON THE DANFORTH,

HOP

TO THE VICTIMS OF AN UNFATHOMABLE

When bullets rang out on the Danforth at 10 p.m. on July 22, 2018, Dr. Najma Ahmed was at home, tucking herself into bed. Seconds later, her phone was buzzing. Code Orange. Next thing, she was flying through the doors of St. Michael's Slaight Family Emergency Department, determined to revive the victims involved in one of Toronto's worst mass shootings. Five patients arrived at St. Michael's with life-threatening injuries that night. Dr. Ahmed operated on three of them. "I spent that night repairing holes in organs and resuscitating patients out of profound shock and back to life," she says. "I chose this career because I felt that with very hard work and passion, I might save a life that otherwise would have been lost. It is an awesome experience." It's no wonder St. Michael's trauma survival rate is among the best in North America.

A LIFE-THREATENING BRAIN TUMOUR

INMIS

THANKS TO 5-ALA, A NEW DISCOVERY IN

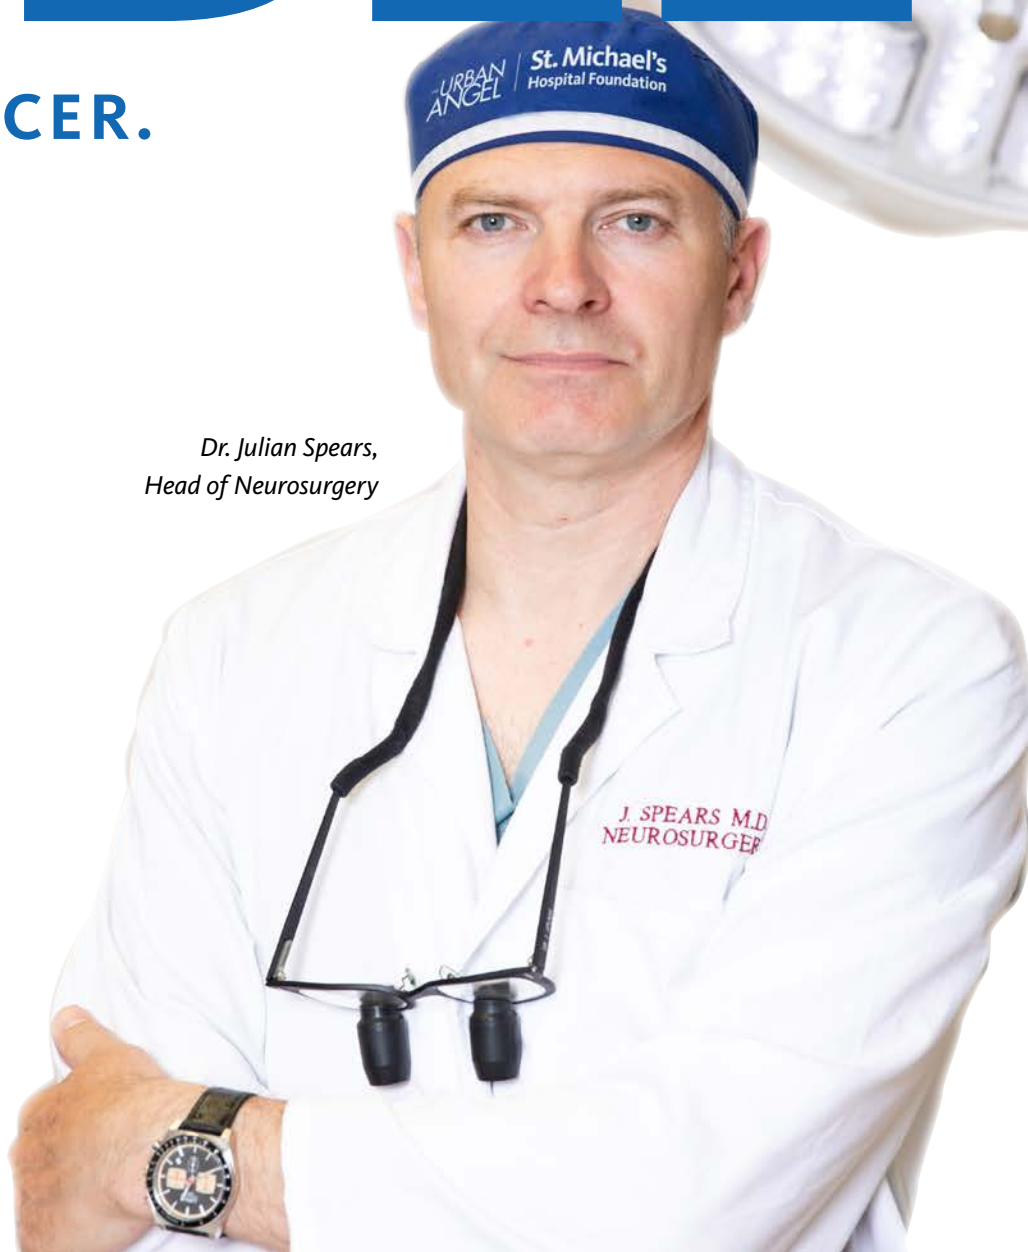

Renowned neurosurgeon and Chair in Cerebrovascular & Brain Tumour Surgery Dr. Julian Spears did something remarkable this year, a first for a Toronto hospital. He lit up a highly malignant tumour in a patient's brain – in bright fuchsia, no less – to help make his surgery even more precise. It's thanks to a discovery called 5-ALA – previously used only in Europe – and according to Dr. Spears, it's one part of the first chapter in St. Michael's oncology revolution. The downside? It's expensive. But two long-time donors, grateful for Dr. Spears' work heading one of the largest, busiest and most successful neurosurgery departments in North America, underwrote the equipment and the necessary drug. These donors are typical of all of St. Michael's supporters – a group of fierce ambassadors who make better health care accessible to more people. This time, they're helping change how we treat brain tumours in Canada.

THANKS TO SCAR WARS, WE

TACKLE FIBROSIS HEAD ON.

Fibrosis – or organ scarring – is responsible for nearly half of all deaths in the developed world. And while there are hundreds of drugs for heart disease and various cancers, medicine has yet to figure out how to diagnose and treat fibrosis. “We owe it to our patients to change that,” says world-renowned endocrinologist Dr. Richard Gilbert, who joined forces with a trio of St. Michael’s researchers determined to do just that. With a track record of world firsts, the Scar Wars team has already dramatically impacted patients’ lives with new diagnostic tools and the development of two promising new drugs that could stop and potentially reverse the deadly effects of scarring. It could be as little as five years until these life-saving treatments are available to patients. Dr. Gilbert believes all of this is possible because of the unique environment that is St. Michael’s. “You cannot get this kind of collaboration anywhere else.”

OUR MOST FRAGILE BABIES CAN HELP OF NEOVEST, OUR WORLD-FIRST

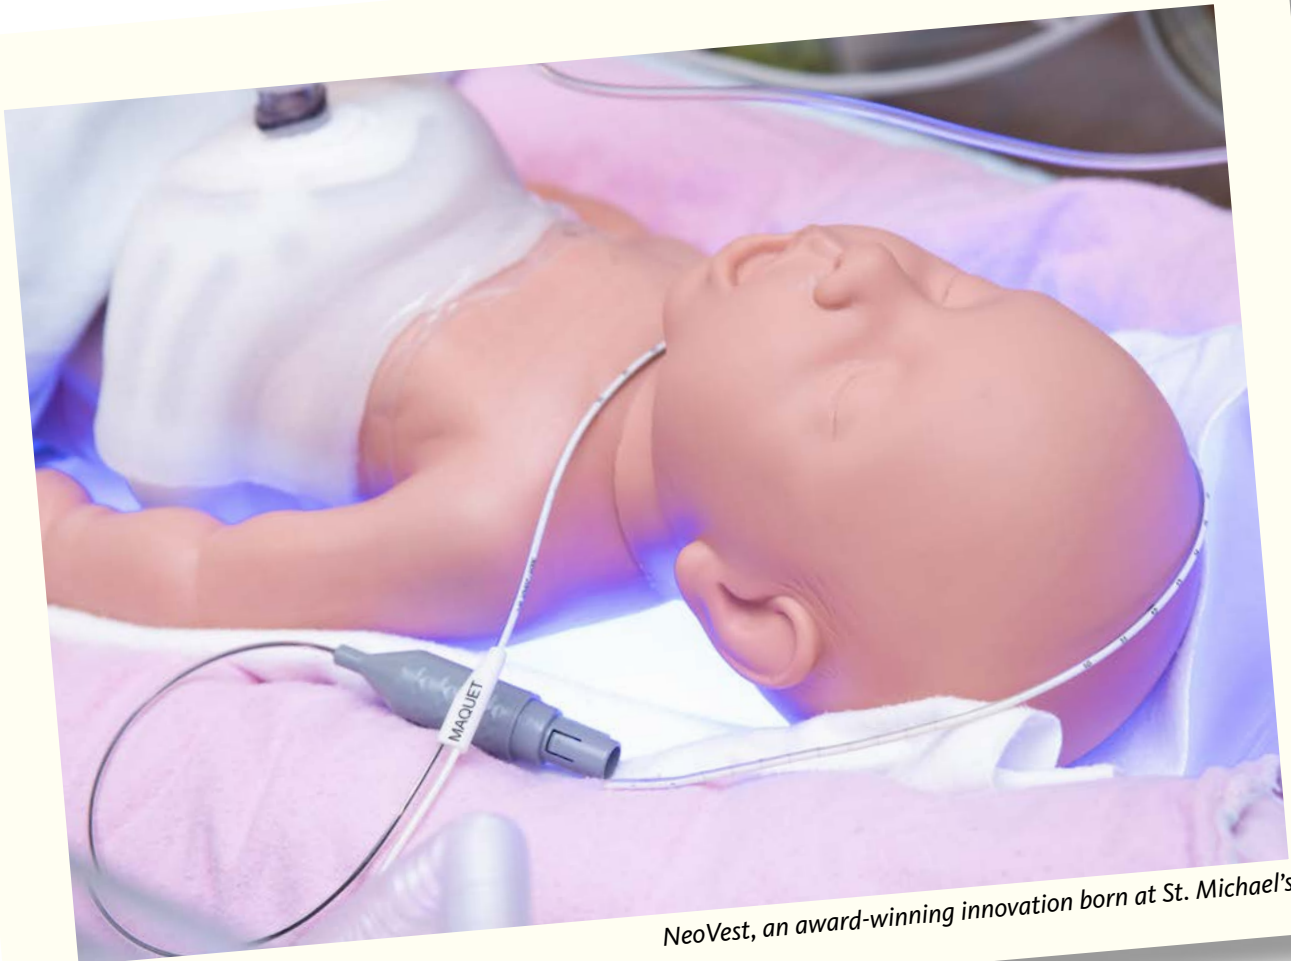

Up to 10 per cent of all babies are admitted to the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit. The biggest challenge they face is breathing: lung disease, premature lung development, lung infection and water in the lungs.

These babies often end up with tubes down their throats and masks that damage their tiny faces. Not satisfied with the standard of care, Drs. Jennifer Beck and Doug Campbell set out to invent a gentler, safer and more effective solution. That's when the NeoVest was born. And after just a few years of development, the award-winning vest – which helps fragile babies breathe – is ready for clinical trials. The odds of success are on our side. NeoVest was the 2015 winner of Angels Den, a competition that brings together visionary researchers, leading business experts and celebrity judges to fund medical breakthroughs. “From idea to a product in under two years is incredible. From idea to clinical testing in four years is extraordinary,” says Dr. Campbell.

THANKS TO DR. MAMDANI, AI

St. Michael's is home to Canada's largest, most sophisticated hospital-based data warehouse and advanced analytics team. What are we doing with all of this information? "Health care is data-rich, but there is often too much to process for the average human mind," says Dr. Muhammad Mamdani, the award-winning scientist at the helm of the Li Ka Shing Centre for Healthcare Analytics Research and Training. When he discovered that artificial intelligence (AI) can make meaning out of this data, he began testing ways to harness it to change clinical practice, inform health-care policy and improve patient outcomes. His team's first AI tool is already being used to predict emergency department volumes days to weeks in advance – with well over 90 per cent accuracy. And he hopes the next tools can soon save lives. "We want to know, for example, if an algorithm that is able to whip through hundreds of patient records within a minute can identify the seven patients eligible to take blood-thinning drugs which reduce the risk of a stroke by 60 to 70 per cent," says Dr. Mamdani.

A MESSAGE FROM TIM, LILI AND JOHN

What a year it has been.

At St. Michael's Hospital, it has been a year of world-first surgical procedures, life-changing discoveries and groundbreaking innovations that are transforming medical practice. It's all a testament to one thing: the relentless attitude of our doctors, nurses, scientists and health teams – with their abiding commitment to never saying no, no matter how tough the challenge, or how intractable the problem.

At St. Michael's Hospital Foundation, it has also been a year of firsts – all possible because of our donors, a fierce community of supporters whose commitment to St. Michael's is unabating. Thanks to you, we've created a new plan that changes the way we work and takes us to the next level of impact and influence. We've created new event experiences, welcomed new major donors, embarked on five new fundraising campaigns and, for the first time ever, launched a mass-media awareness campaign – called Stop At Nothing – to tell the St. Michael's story and build a larger fundraising platform.

Stop At Nothing will expand our Transplant and Kidney Care Centre by building a world-class clinic and spurring research to stop, and even reverse, the devastation of organ scarring.

It will complete the revolutionary Walter and Maria Schroeder BRAIN&HEART Centre, and create the most advanced platform for collaboration between neurology and cardiac specialists anywhere.

It will enable our world-leading researchers to redefine health care to disrupt the cycle of poverty and create a healthier future for all.

It will help stop multiple sclerosis in its tracks, by funding research and treatment innovations at the BARLO MS Centre, a one-stop shop that has changed the model of care.

And it will build a state-of-the-art NICU – a maternity space with obstetrics, gynecology and a recovery unit all on a single floor, so that no matter what happens, the best experts are right there.

We Stop At Nothing is our promise to you.

And we know you share in this promise. Because our donors are passionate ambassadors of St. Michael's Hospital. Because our donors are relentless in their drive to support cutting-edge research, to get things done and make progress possible. Because our donors dare to envision a future where “can't” and “won't” are simply not in the St. Michael's vocabulary.

So to all of you who shared your wisdom and championed our life-changing campaigns. Who spent early mornings and late nights turning wishes into world-class programs and bold ideas into bricks and mortar. Who tirelessly golfed, bowled, danced, dodged, darted and dove your way to raise funds for our most pressing priorities. Who stopped at nothing to help St. Michael's succeed in tackling some of the toughest health challenges.

We thank YOU.

*Dr. Tim Rutledge, President and CEO, Unity Health Toronto,
Lili Litwin, President, St. Michael's Hospital Foundation,
John Barford, Chair, St. Michael's Hospital Foundation*

OUR NEW WALTER AND MARIA
SCHROEDER BRAIN&HEART CENTRE
IS SET TO REVOLUTIONIZE CARE.

Thanks to the remarkable $19.125-million gift of legendary Canadian philanthropists Walter and Maria Schroeder, we have the opportunity to do what no one has done before: Create a hub for the world's top brain and heart specialists – and create a platform for innovation that will put brain and heart care at the frontier of medicine. It only makes sense. The brain and heart have many commonalities. They share risk factors. Many of the diseases that impact each of them are linked. And many treatments are the same. Our physicians, surgeons and scientists spanning cardiac and neurological medicine are working in tandem on a new model of care that makes collaboration protocol, the invention of new tools and techniques an everyday practice, and medical ingenuity a priority. And it's only happening at St. Michael's Hospital.

THE NEXT MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGH

UNDISC

THANKS TO FUNDING FROM OUR

In the world of health-care research, there is no such thing as an overnight success story. Discoveries that save lives, treat diseases and improve our quality of life take time, tenacity and an influx of funding. Introducing St. Michael's Research Innovation Council (RIC). It's a different approach to funding research because donors choose which scientists and projects receive an annual pool of funds. Donors are then immersed in the discovery experience. They develop a personal stake in scientific breakthroughs. They go behind the scenes and inside the lab to see early-stage research and make funding decisions that could bring the next medical invention to life. Dr. Gaspard Montandon, a scientist in the Keenan Research Centre for Biomedical Science, was the first beneficiary of RIC funding. His goal is nothing less than to find an antidote to the staggering opioid crisis.

Our Research Innovation Council makes medical ingenuity possible. Join us.

Betsy Fruitman wants to see the end of multiple sclerosis. After all, Canada has the highest incidence of MS in the world and Betsy knows it's a tough, unpredictable disease that impacts not only people's bodies, but their lives. In fact, Betsy knows it all too well. Her daughter, Lisa, was diagnosed with the disease more than 20 years ago. So Betsy made the decision to invest in the world-leading BARLO MS Centre at St. Michael's Hospital. Very soon, the Lou and Betsy Fruitman Lobby will sit at the centre of a 30,000 sq. ft. architectural masterpiece that will integrate research, education, medical treatments, emotional care and life-management skills – all in one spot. The centre will do what was once unimaginable: catapult MS to a whole new sphere of progress and break the back of a disease that has proven intractable.

When the black box was introduced to the aviation industry, preventable errors plummeted. Dr. Teodor

Grantcharov, head of the International Centre for Surgical Safety, is seeing his version of the black box do the same during surgery. The Operating Room Black Box captures data by using video, audio and multiple sensors, and allows surgical teams to scrutinize their performance so they can continually perfect their technique. Now, artificial intelligence is taking this innovation to the next level. As data from the surgical box is fed into AI algorithms, feedback to surgeons on the best way to proceed will be given during an operation.

Dr. Grantcharov is changing surgical safety in some of the highest-risk health-care environments in Canada and throughout the world.

THANKS TO VISIONARY TH HOM FOR MANY MORE TORON

In Toronto, about 8,000 people are homeless on any given night. In the last five years, one in eight of us has had a friend or family member become addicted to opioids. And every year, Canadians die because they can't afford their medication.

Here's the good news. St. Michael's is home to MAP Centre for Urban Health Solutions, a pathbreaking research centre that is using innovative solutions-focused approaches to intervene at the intersection of health and poverty. MAP has already made remarkable strides in interrupting chronic homelessness, disrupting the opioid epidemic, ensuring people can get the medications they need, intervening early to improve children's well-being, and advancing Indigenous health.

In 2019, a number of MAP's research projects were on display at an exhibit hosted in spaces across Toronto. Through interactive installations designed by scientists, featuring real-life patient stories, Redirecting the Future: The Intersection of Health and Poverty illuminated the broad range of interventions underway at MAP. It also marked the launch of a $25-million fundraising campaign to support MAP's ambitious mission to build the world's healthiest city.

The exhibit was made possible by John A. Lederer, Jackman Reinvents and ECN Capital. Thanks to their commitment, we are one step closer to disrupting the cycle of poverty and creating a healthier future for all.

YOUR GENEROSITY

In fiscal 2018-2019, we raised $51.1 million net revenue for St. Michael's. Of that, $4.2 million is designated for endowed funds to be invested in perpetuity, with the annual returns supporting Chairs and other funds in the future. Generous donors enabled us to fund many initiatives across the hospital.

Here are just some of the equipment and projects that your gifts supported:

Angels Den Research Awards

BARLO MS Centre

Centre for Surgical Safety

Dr. Mary Papantony Nephrology Research

Endowed and Term Chairs

Eye Biobank (N. Gupta)

Heart & Stroke Research

James Drewry Stewart Fellowship in
Multiple Myeloma and Malignant Hematology

MAP Centre for Urban Health Solutions

Model Schools Pediatric Health Initiative

Multiple Sclerosis Patient Registry

Research Innovation Council

Syron Nursing Excellence Program

Transcatheter Tricuspid Valve Project

Youth Mental Health Program

INVESTING IN THE BEST CARE

Our donors drive world-class research, education and care by investing in Funds and Chairs.
